New Standard of Efficiency.

Cornelius Roach of Carthage has just announced his candidacy for renomination to the office which he has filled so satisfactorily the last four years. The consenus of opinion is that Mr. Roach will have very little opposition on election day. The administration of the office of Secretary of State by Roach has set a new standard for efficiency in that department of Missouri's government. Coupled with his official record is the fact that there is not a man in the State with a wider acquaintance, and in almost every instance acquaintanceship spells friendship. His renomination and re-election will be matters of history just as soon as the calendar can arrive at those points. -Joplin Daily Globe.
